Services

Grant Proposal Writing

We believe that for any institution to grow, there is need to tap into new territories hence we bring proposal writing skills to the fore to enable you to harness new grounds. We develop professional proposals for institutions including the budgets, log-frames, and M&E plans. We customise all proposals for different entities. In addition, we prepare presentations on your behalf for the parties you intend to submit the proposals to, if needed.

Capacity Building

Organisations flourish whenever employees have the capacity to implement their projects professionally. We provide in-house training on proposal writing, presentations, report-writing, and M&E skills. We can also provide training-of-trainers workshops on different skills. Today, information management is critical for preserving institutional knowledge hence we believe that your organisation needs to value the information you possess through managing it well for future engagements. We train organisations to manage their information professionally.

Proof-reading and Editing

We strive in perfecting every document that passes through our firm. We offer proof-reading and editing services to students, academic institutions, government departments and NGOs. Our attention to detail enables us to focus on your documents whilst you engage on high-level issues. We utilise different referencing styles and always proud to offer you good quality work.

Performance Management and Research

We offer M&E skills to organisations through assisting them to develop tools that assist them to monitor their projects. In addition, we conduct evaluations for projects and provide unbiased reports that assist organisations in their future programming. We also facilitate learning events and assist organisations to build a learning environment. Our research skills are solid and always available for any organisation that requires external assistance. We develop quality data collection tools and work together with organisations to collect data. Also, we analyse the data and write professional reports.
